The Dog/Human Relationship

By Ursula Hoefl

Did humans domesticate the wolf, or did the wolf domesticate himself? It's a question researchers continue to ponder.

While it's true that dogs descended directly from wolves – the two species can still breed with one another – how they came to be "man's best friend" is debatable. Some researchers posit that less aggressive, less fearful wolves – maybe they were more glutinous too – ventured near humans' settlements to partake of their garbage. Sounds logical to me. Having a bunch of big juicy bones laying there for the taking had to beat killing some big mastodon or woolly mammoth to get a meal. Knowing how bright their descendents are (today's dogs) it's easy to buy into the idea that dogs' ancestors decided to give up hunting for their food and let people do the hunting for them. Pretty much what's still going on today, only we do our hunting at the supermarket.

The symbiotic relationship that soon developed between humans and wolves (dogs) – I'm talking evolution time when I say "soon" – served them both well. Humans had faithful companions who helped them hunt, guarded their possessions and kept them safe. Wolves, or dogs, had food security; eventually also the warmth of their humans' campfires. Maybe they even got a chance to slip under their bear skin covers on cold nights.

But something else also developed between the two species: affection. Evidence that this occurred early on in their relationship was found in a twelve thousand year old grave site in Israel where archeologists discovered what is undoubtedly a dog embraced in death by a woman. Affection, it would seem, was a driving force in the human/dog relationship almost from the beginning.

It wasn't only in ancient times that people wanted to spend eternity with their dogs. Hotel heiress Leona Helmsley's beloved Maltese, Trouble, was buried alongside her in her mausoleum crypt. When she died in 2007, the hotel heiress left Trouble a $12 million trust fund and instructions in her will that she be buried with her. Four years later she was.

And, to make sure that they will continue to enjoy the life they've been accustomed to, other über rich Americans also included their dogs in their wills.

Miami heiress Gail Posner left her mansion and a $3 million trust fund to her three dogs.

Instead of leaving his money to his blond girlfriend, millionaire Sidney Altman left the bulk of his $6 million estate to his blond cocker spaniel, Samantha.

And Oprah's dogs stand to inherit millions if they outlive her.

I'd say those wolves who chose to join the human pack back in prehistoric times made a wise decision!

The Real Reason Why We Own Dogs

Titles are nice, but here's the REAL REASON WHY WE OWN DOGS ...

Mary Dellorto says:

Seeing the happiness on the faces of the Susan G. Komen walkers when they were greeted by Canine Therapy Corps Dogs (my dogs Labrador Bliss and Doberman Gemma) at the end of their first day.

"If they don't allow dogs in heaven...when I die I want to go where they go." ~~ Will Rogers

Dogs Provide Cuddles and Comfort

By Ursula Hoeft

Comfort Dogs, a Chicago-area-based Lutheran Church Charities program, received a lot of well-deserved recognition recently when they deployed to Newtown, Connecticut after the horrific massacre at Sandy Hook Elementary School. The dogs, all Golden Retrievers, and their handlers visited with bereaved residents to provide them with the sympathetic, cuddly comfort that only a dog can give.

Reading what a few Newtown resident had to say, as quoted in a December 17, 2012 New York Daily News article, it's obvious that the dogs accomplished what they came to do.

"I just love dogs, so whenever I'm around them, they make me feel better," said 12-year-old Ryan Williams. "When they come over and you pet them you kind of forget about what's happening for a little bit."

Jenna Stuart, a school bus driver from Newtown, said the dogs were an enormous help to her four-year-old daughter, Kylie, who attends preschool at the Children's Adventure Center in front of Sandy Hook Elementary and lost friends in the tragedy.

"I like the dogs because they made me happy," said Kylie, after petting one on the head. "The dogs love me.."

"They're just gentle, caring, kind and sweet" Ann Marie Cioffi said of the dogs. "They just seem to sense it. They just sense when somebody's sad."

If you want to know more about the various comfort, or therapy, dogs that went to Newtown and how grieving residents felt about them, type "comfort dogs" into your Internet browser. There are wonderful photos on-line, too.

Tracking Positions Still Open

Thank you to those who have volunteered to chair and secretary Rand Park's spring VST trial and secretary our fall VST trial. However, we still need to fill the positions of secretary and chair for the trials listed below. Although it may seem early to ask, we are required by the AKC to have the paperwork filed at least six months in advance of the event.

We ask that you check your schedules and see if you could lend a hand. If you are currently tracking, it would fulfill your obligation to help during the season as well as give you worker's draw privileges for upcoming trials.

Mentors are always available to help if you have no experience with these positions.

Please contact Terri Everwine (everte@comcast.net) or Diane Muzzey (ctbrady97@yahoo.com).

Positions open:

Chairman & Secretary TDX September 21-22, 2013
Chairman VST October 5-6, 2013

Legislative Liaison Committee Report

January 25, 2013

Rand Park's Legislative Committee consists of Margo Milde, Chair mrm1206@yahoo.com and Lois Leidahl-Marsh berniersplus@comcast.net Please be sure to contact us with any pet legislation concerns or questions.

"Law and liberty cannot rationally become the objects of our love, unless they first become the objects of our knowledge."
--James Wilson, Of the Study of the Law in the United States

American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (ASPCA) will pay Feld Corp (Ringling Bros.) 9.3 Million Dollars to settle lawsuit: The case is a long and convoluted one, but just to recap, back in 2002, ASPCA, and several other Animal Rights groups filed a lawsuit against Feld Corp. (Ringling Bros.) alleging animal abuse of Ringling elephants under the US Endangered Species Act. The case was dismissed in 2009, and ASPCA et al. exhausted all avenues for appeal. According to the Court opinion, HSUS, ASPCA, and several other organizations and individuals financially supported a former Feld elephant handler, Tom Rider, in order that he make false accusations against Feld in court; when revealed in court, it provided major grounds for the court's dismissal of charges against Feld. In 2010 Feld filed a lawsuit against HSUS and related parties alleging - among other accusations - civil violation of RICO statutes, money laundering, and illegal witness payments connected with the original ASPCA lawsuit against Feld. The April 2012 lawsuit by Feld these Animal Rights groups claims legal fees incurred by Feld defending itself against the false allegations provided by the ASPCA/HSUS etc.- supported handle; these legal fees may total over 20 million dollars. Even though ASPCA has now settled and is removed as defendant from the Feld lawsuit, Feld will continue its lawsuit against HSUS and other organizations and individuals that they allege were involved in this money laundering scheme, which attempted to defraud Feld of its earnings as well as sully its good reputation. You can find additional details in this article:

AVMA new policy on devocalization (debarking, bark softening): First off, if any you know dogs that have had this procedure done, the more descriptive term is "bark softened" (and not debarked or devocalized); the dog is still well able to bark, but at a much lower decibel level that won't be as likely to upset the neighbors. AVMA's new policy is that this procedure should be done as a last resort, and only after alternative measures, such as "behavior modification", have been attempted. This is very unfortunate, since there are a number of breeds that are hard-wired to bark repeatedly and loudly, and given that dogs must increasingly adapt themselves to life in an urban environment, repeatedly disturbing the neighborhood peace just doesn't cut it. These alternative non-surgical measures towards control of unwanted barking don't often work, and are very expensive even when they do; they also don't provide a fast and safe solution to a dog barking problem should the landlord be threatening to throw both the dog and his owner out of the building if the barking doesn't cease. Finally, many dogs given up to shelters were relinquished because of a barking problem that couldn't be readily solved; reducing the availability of this procedure will give these dogs one less option towards a new life in a permanent home. Unfortunately, this new AVMA policy will encourage states and municipalities to pass anti-debarking laws, something that we need to be alert for here in Illinois and opposed should it arise. New AVMA policy here:

Dognapping up 70%, says the AKC: The American Kennel Club tracked 432 pet thefts in 2011, compared to 255 thefts in 2010, and said that dogs are even being stolen out of animal shelters, and mixed breeds are being stolen along with purebreds. Their advice is, don't leave your dog alone for a moment, even in a locked vehicle, and make certain your pet is microchipped for a better chance of recovery should it be taken. See: <http://newyork.cbslocal.com/2012/12/28/american-kennel-club-says-dognapping-cases-are-up-by-almost-70-percent/>

Los Angeles to remove performance dog exemption from their Mandatory Spay-Neuter (MSN) law, even for purebred dogs: Some of you remember when we battled (at least to a draw) the proposed MSN in Chicago, with City Council hearings in July 2008 and March 2009. The proponents of Chicago MSN proudly boasted that the wording for the Chicago ordinance would be largely similar to that of LA, where MSN had just been passed in February 2008. Chicago MSN didn't go through, thankfully (and thanks again to those of you who actively fought against it), but the noose around the necks of purebred dogs and their owners in Los Angeles just keeps getting tighter and tighter. Now, Animal Rights activists want the LA performance dog spay/neuter exemption to be completely removed, and require a mandatory spay/neuter for second impound at any time in the dog's life, even for dogs owned by breeders with a breeding permit. Just be thankful that all isn't here...yet...Read the AKC Alert on this topic posted on the CAPetLaw blog for more:
